

VAST ALLIED OFFENSIVE IN PACIFIC SEEN

Official Washington Looks For Decisive Naval Battle Soon

MacARTHUR DIRECTS LATEST OPERATIONS

Believe Japan Can No longer Avoid Another Test Of Sea Power

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 1.—Launching of a vast Allied offensive aimed at the heart of Japan's Southwest Pacific bastions was viewed in informed quarters here today as the spark that might touch off another momentous and possibly decisive naval engagement.

Observers expressed belief Tokyo's warlords could not much longer avoid another open test of sea power if they hope to stem the co-ordinated land, naval and air drive that began with announcement of American forces had landed on Rendova island and was followed quickly by a series of trip-hammer assaults on key points of the New Guinea area.

That Gen. Douglas MacArthur personally is directing the whole action underscored the full dress nature of the campaign now under way. As Allied forces moved into position from Nassau bay on the north coast of New Guinea to Rendova and New Georgia islands in the Central Solomons—fighting in some places and unopposed in others—it appeared a gigantic pincer movement was being aimed at the strategic and heavily fortified enemy base at Rabaul, on New Britain. Rabaul generally is regarded as the center of the whole Japanese structure in the South and Southwest Pacific areas.

It was believed here the enemy might be compelled to throw battleships and aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers and submarines into a major counter-offensive. Loss of Rabaul not only would expose the supply lines which link all of Japan's conquered territories in that whole area but would give the Allies a jumping-off place for an assault on the big enemy naval base at Truk island, 1,000 miles to the north.

There was no word on the size of the forces involved, but it was assumed they were powerful since Secretary Knox recently disclosed a great fleet had been assembled in the South Pacific. Other authorities have reported a steady strengthening of all forces in the Solomons.

GENE KRUPA FACES PRISON SENTENCE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—A mandatory prison sentence of from one to six years hangs over the head of Gene Krupa, 34, drum-beating leader of a nationally known dance band.

Yesterday a juvenile court jury convicted Krupa of using a minor—his valet and property man, John Patekos, 20—to transport narcotics. Under the California act which the jury found Krupa had violated, probation is barred specifically.

The young drummer will come before Judge Thomas Foley in juvenile court tomorrow for formal sentencing.

He now is serving a 90-day jail sentence assessed when he pleaded guilty on May 18 to the misdemeanor charge of permitting Patekos to possess marijuana cigarettes.

Ohio to Have 1944 Plates

YOUNGSTOWN, July 1.—George F. Wagner, auditor in the State Bureau of Motor Vehicles, told the South Side Merchants and Civic association last night that Ohio would issue a single non-metallic license plate for automobiles in 1944 instead of the windshield stickers now in use.

Legionnaires From Nine Counties Will Attend Salem Rally

Committee Completes Plan For July 10-11 District Convention

A parade featuring several bands and drum corps, with Legionnaires from nine counties and Salem and Civilian Defense council units in the line of march, will be one of the highlights of the annual Tenth district American Legion convention to be held in Salem Saturday and Sunday, July 10 and 11.

The parade, scheduled to move at 4 p. m. Sunday, will lead to Reilly stadium, where Martin V. Coffey of Middletown, state commander of the Legion, will speak at public ceremonies which will close the convention. In the event of rain this part of the program will be held in the Memorial building.

These and other final arrangements for Charles H. Carey post No. 56 to act as host to 200 or more Legionnaires of the district, were completed at a meeting of the convention committee headed by John C. Litty and Atty Charles G. McCorkhill, co-chairmen, last night in the Legion home.

District Chief Here
Atty J. Lee Pickering of Minerva, district commander, was in the city last night to assist the committee in shaping up its two-day program.

R. L. Hutcheson, chairman of the parade committee, reported that the Legion band of Canton, Fairmount Children's Home band, and the High school and Old Timers bands of Salem will participate in the parade and that there also is a possibility the Steubenville Legion band and the Junior band of Canton may be here. The Alliance Legion drum corps has agreed to come and the parade also will include the Victory corps of Lisbon High school students.

Practically all of the Civilian Defense units are expected to enter the parade, which also will include several saddle horses and other features, as well as the Legionnaires, many of them in uniform and all wearing Legion caps. Veterans of Foreign Wars also have been invited to participate in the parade.

The parade will form on South Broadway, moving west on Pershing north on S. Elsworth, east on E. State, south on Ohio and west on Pershing to Reilly stadium. There the program, open to the public, will get under way with the advancing of the colors to the speakers stand in the center of the field. Following the invocation,

The list of postal receipts by months for 1943 and 1942, respectively, follows: January, $11,597.16 and $9,914.94; February, $9,025.88 and $8,419.91; March, $9,853.20 and $9,003.11; April, $9,929.59 and $7,816; May, $8,733.88 and $7,816.63; June, $9,619.20 and $8,446.82.

Lisbon Bridge Project For Future Anticipated
LISBON, July 1.—Reconstruction of the Canton bridge on the Lincoln highway, at the west corporation line here, is a major postwar project proposed for Columbiana county by the state highway department and the federal government.

The bridge, which is over 800 feet in length and spanning a valley through which flows the middle fork of Beaver creek, was rebuilt in 1899, and since then only temporary repairs have been made to the structure from time to time.

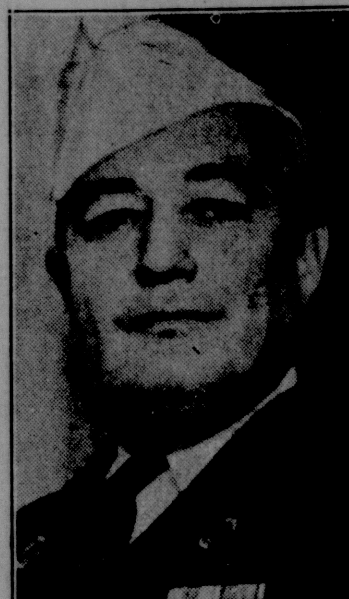

County Commissioner Clarence J. Robinson said today this project was discussed at Columbus last week when county commissioners met with state highway department heads to discuss postwar projects.

Robinson said that replacement cost would be around $250,000.

MORE MINERS RESUME WORK

Thousands Return to Pits In Pennsylvania and Alabama Regions

PITTSBURGH, July 1.—More thousands of hard coal miners returned to the pits today in eastern Pennsylvania and a couple thousand more soft coal workers returned in Alabama, reducing the number of idle in the nation's mines to roughly around 104,000.

The number idle yesterday had been unofficially estimated at 130,000.

Last night Secretary Ickes, fuel administrator, in charge of the mines now under government control, appealed to coal miners everywhere not to stay away from their jobs "on the eve of the greatest military campaign in history."

In western Pennsylvania's soft coal fields, the return of scattered United Mine Workers locals was offset by a drive to close all mines in the upper Monongahela river valley, heart of the steel industry's metallurgical coal fields, and the refusal of 5,200 central Pennsylvania miners to work last night despite the solid fuels administrator's warning that "the complaints of no man or group of men" could be placed above the nation's military goal.

Steel Output Curtailed
(U. M. W.) District Presidents John P. Busarello of Pittsburgh and John Hynes of Uniontown said, however, they believed the situation was "well in hand" and predicted an end by next Tuesday of this third in the two-month series of work stoppages which, the trade publication Iron Age estimated, have cost the war effort 170,000 tons of steel.

Busarello and Hynes were two of approximately a dozen U. M. W. leaders interviewed who said they did not hear the broadcast last night in which Ickes said the miners' wage grievance was only one of numerous complaints—"many of them justified"—received in Washington and that "each of these special groups tends to overlook the major issue, the winning of the war, to the immediate interest of the particular group."

Approximately 200 men from a dozen mines which have been shut down since the general walkout started June 20 met at Brownsville, Pa., and voted to continue on strike and to attempt to induce miners now working in steel company "captive" pits to quit. The Crucible Steel Co.'s mine at Crucible, Pa., employing 900, voted to return to work today, leaving six mines employing about 3,000 idle in the 21,000-member district.

Pittsburgh district 8 reported two Crescent mines returned today, leaving nine others, with 8,000 of the district's 36,000 men, idle. The steel industry meanwhile reopened five of 18 blast furnaces closed during the strike but three others shut down in Alabama.

Several Kinds of Shoes Released from Rationing

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Gold and silver evening slippers, domestic riding boots, and baseball, track and football shoes will be released from rationing July 7.

Announcing this today, the Office of Price Administration said in respect to evening slippers made of gold or silver uppers of real or imitation leather that there had been little public demand for these items and production of the leathers had been stopped by the War Production Board.

The athletic shoes released from rationing, OPA said, are not suitable for general wear and their production is limited, making rationing unnecessary.

FINANCE BILL JAM TIES UP F. D. R.'S FUND

Senate, House Deadlocked Over Passage of Appropriation

SEVERAL AGENCIES OPERATE ON CUFF

President Without Emergency Funds As Fiscal Year Begins

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 1.—A log jam of money bills in Congress left President Roosevelt without a nickel of emergency funds today for the first time in three years and forced many war agencies to operate temporarily on the cuff.

Although both senate and house were agreed that the executive should start off the new fiscal year with at least $89,000,000 for emergency purposes, a deadlock over withholding salaries of three federal workers blocked passage of a bill making the sum available. The measure was one of half a dozen major bills left stranded when Congress adjourned overnight after a futile attempt to shove them through before the 1942-43 fiscal year ended at midnight. The only big bill cleared was a $71,500,000 win-the-war army supply measure.

Tied up in the other legislation were 1944 funds for the Departments of Agriculture and Interior, the Federal Security agency and a group of other departments including the Office of Price Administration, the Office of War Information and the War Production Board.

Validating Provisions
Except for the urgent deficiency bill carrying the President's money, all the other measures have provisions validating any obligation incurred after June 30 provided the obligation was in accordance with limitations in each bill.

Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo.) of the house appropriations committee contended, however, that, legally, none of the agencies depending on presidential funds could incur an obligation or meet a payroll because the validating provisions have not yet been enacted. The provisions he explained, were written into the bills on the assumption payrolls of agencies whose funds were held up could be paid with loans from the President's emergency fund.

But, he pointed out, there are no presidential funds available, and employees of the agencies involved technically began working for nothing today and trusting in Uncle Sam to pay them later.

Cannon said he understood government operation of the coal mines was being financed from the emergency fund, as well as such agencies as the war food administration, the office of war mobilization and the office of economic stabilization.

He predicted, however, final congressional approval of the $143,000,000 deficiency bill by nightfall. The only thing holding it up is disagreement.

June Warmest On Record, Copeland's Figures Disclose

The month just passed was the warmest June on record, with a maximum temperature on June 27 of 96 degrees and 10 days with a temperature above 90 and 13 days with temperature above 80, L. H. Copeland of Millport, government district weather observer, revealed today in his report for June.

The high temperature for June, 1942, was 94 degrees. Normal temperature for the 50-year period in which weather records have been kept is 66.1. The 1943 mean temperature hit a high of 72.4, considerably higher than last June's mean of 68.8. The 71.9 average recorded in June, 1934, is the nearest to this year's all-time high.

The mean temperature last month of 59.4 was well above last June's 41, but was below the coolest June temperature of 1927, of 60.3 degrees. The coldest day this June was the 10th, with a temperature of 52 reported.

Total precipitation for June of 2.50 inches, shows a slight increase over the 2.04 inches of June, 1942. Normal precipitation is 4.23 inches. June, 1928, when total rainfall measured 8.36 inches, holds the record for rainfall and June, 1913, remains as the driest, with only .72 inches tabulated.

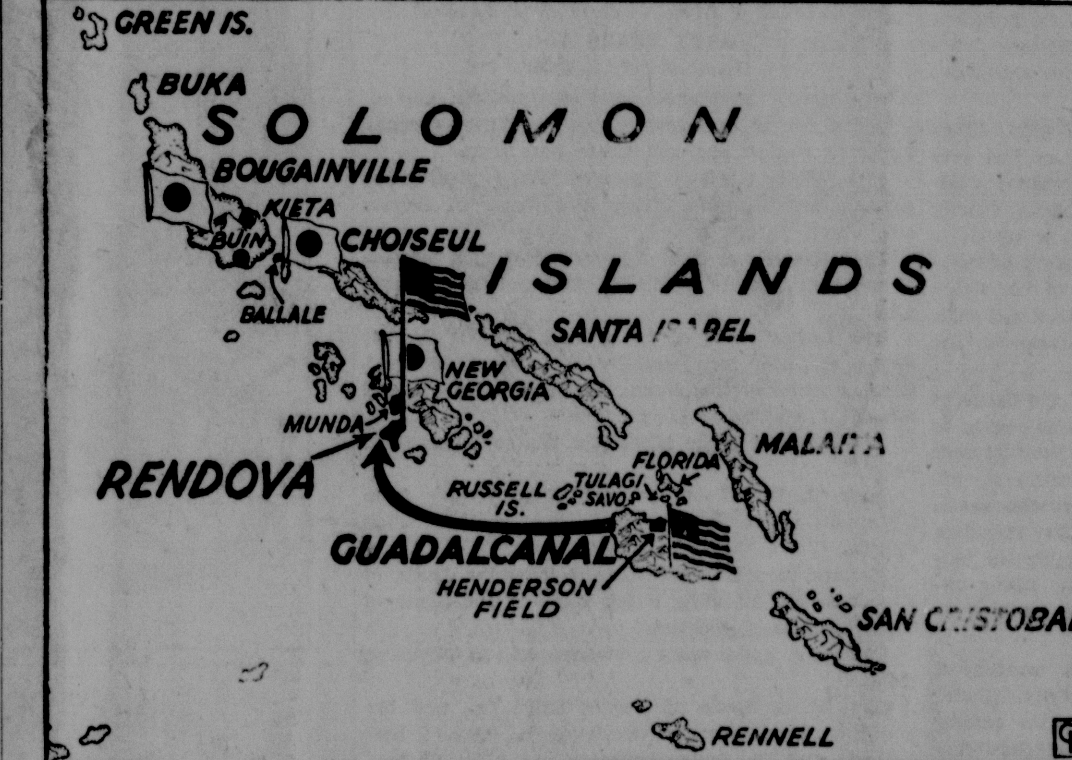

The observer's report shows that there were nine days with precipitation of .01 inch or more, 15 clear days, 14 partly cloudy and one cloudy last month. There were five days when storms occurred.

"Despite a backward spring," Copeland says, "a few corn fields have crops which are knee-high, although some fields are being worked for the first time. A large crop of hay is expected and wheat, turning yellow now, soon will be ready to harvest."

Capture Of Viru Harbor From Japs Disclosed By U. S. Navy Which Tells Of Big Battle

YANKS LAND IN HEART OF JAP-HELD SOLOMONS

HEART OF THE JAP-HELD SOLOMONS has been pierced by American forces, which have landed on Rendova island in the New Georgia group, only five miles from the big enemy base at Munda. The newest American thrust, indicated on the above map, was made at a point 175 miles northwest of Guadalcanal and halfway to the principal Japanese base on Bougainville island.

Europe Is Given Unparalleled Pounding By Allied Pilots

(By The Associated Press)
LONDON, July 1.—Striking from three directions, the mighty air arms of the American and British Allies subjected Axis Europe to a design of destruction unparalleled in all history during the month of June, and for the enemy the worst still was to come.

During the month, Allied aerial power reached out in rising fury from bases in Britain, in Northwest Africa and in the Middle East—with American and British fliers cooperating smoothly to keep the offensive going virtually around the clock.

These accomplishments stood out: 1. The unconditional surrender of the Italian fortress, island of Pantelleria on June 11, first island ever conquered by air power alone; the subsequent capitulation of Lampedusa, Linosa and Lampione, and the pattern of destruction wrought by the RAF in its city-by-city bombing of the Ruhr valley, to whose concentrated industries Hitler looks for replenishment of his war machine.

Also significant were the two American Liberator raids last week on Axis airfields near Athens and Salonika, an aerial pointer toward a possible Balkan invasion route, and inauguration by the RAF of a bombing shuttle service between Britain and Africa with an important raid on both the outbound and homeward trips.

Capt. Sir Harold H. Balfour, under secretary of state for air, told the house of commons yesterday that the RAF alone was dropping bombs on Germany at three times the 1942 rate.

Reliable estimates placed the RAF's June bomb deluge delivered from homeland bases at a record 13,500 tons, topping by some 1,000 tons the May record of 12,500 tons. A great proportion of this June destruction was spread upon the Ruhr in nine major attacks, including the assault of Duesseldorf on June 11 by the war's greatest heavy bomber force.

The U. S. Eighth Air Force lost 82 bombers in June against 62 in May, but because of the expanded operations the increase was not considered excessive. In their 13 nights of operation, the RAF fliers lost 269 planes, the highest monthly total of the war.

From Middle East bases, American heavy and medium bombers carried more than 2,155 tons of explosives across the Mediterranean to Axis objectives in 234 sorties during the month with the negligible loss of three big planes.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Secretary Ickes said today the midwest was closer to tighter gasoline consumption curbs than ever and declared the Pacific coast probably would be restricted more severely, too, before the end of the year.

Ickes told a press conference that opening of the big inch pipeline's eastward extension within the next two weeks would bring the midwest still nearer to sharper restrictions without easing the drastic curbs now imposed on eastern motorists.

He added that declining crude oil production in California, plus heavy military demands on that state's output, will almost certainly lead to a deficiency of oil on the west coast before the end of the year that "could, and probably would, mean more severe rationing there."

TWIN ATTACK BOTHERS JAPS

Gen. MacArthur In Charge Of Combined Army, Navy Offensive

(By Associated Press)
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, July 1.—Twin prongs of a momentous offensive against the Japanese in the South and Southwest Pacific were thrust today by land, sea and air, with Gen. Douglas MacArthur for the first time in supreme command of operations.

They were as the tines of a fork pointed west and north toward New Britain island whose volcano-studded harbor of Rabaul can accommodate a good-sized navy and whose airdromes make of it a mighty air fortress.

The upper prong was at Rendova and New Georgia islands in the Central Solomons where Allied landings were made Wednesday.

The lower prong was formed out of unopposed landings on Trobriand and Woodlark islands off the southwestern tip of New Guinea and other landings on New Guinea itself at Nassau bay just south of Salamaua where fighting is in progress.

The perfectly coordinated blows, with progress indicated at all points, comprised the first big push against the Japanese since Allied landings in the Southern Solomons last year.

"All elements—ground, naval and air—are being employed in closest synchronization," said today's communique from General MacArthur's headquarters.

It represented activation of a master plan drawn in April at close guarded conferences between General MacArthur and Admiral William F. Halsey whereby their respective Southwest and South Pacific commands would be merged, with MacArthur directing, for any combined operations.

The New Guinea blows were struck by troops from the Southwest Pacific under immediate command of the American general. Troops and naval forces attacking New Georgia were under Halsey. But MacArthur was over all.

Potato Prices Tumble On New York Markets

NEW YORK, July 1.—Potatoes, rare as imported champagne in New York a few weeks ago, threatened today to become drugs on the local market.

An over-supply drove prices below ceilings and resulted in an official pronouncement urging their purchase and consumption.

The greatest sufferer was the wholesaler, who saw the price of U. S. No. 1 potatoes sell yesterday for $3.25 a hundredweight when the price ceiling was $3.72.

17 U.S. PLANES, ONE SHIP LOST

Enemy Loses 65 Aircraft In Attempt to Prevent Outpost's Seizure

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON, July 1.—American invaders of the Central Solomons have captured Viru harbor, near Japan's Munda airbase, the Navy announced today, after a fierce sea and air battle off Rendova island in which at least 65 enemy aircraft, 17 United States planes and one United States ship were lost.

Viru, a port village, had been used by the Japanese as an outpost for Munda, which lies about 30 nautical miles to the northwest on New Georgia island, and had also been employed as a place for landing supplies. Its loss by the enemy marks the first specific American territorial triumph in the currently developing offensive of which the drive in the Central Solomons is only one part.

The other part is being conducted by General Douglas MacArthur's forces striking northward in the New Guinea area toward the great Japanese base of Rabaul, toward which the offensive in the Solomons also is pointed.

Secretary of War Stimson said at a press conference today that the operations were progressing satisfactorily according to plan under the general direction of MacArthur but added that strong enemy reaction was expected.

The first such reaction, the Navy communique disclosed, came Wednesday morning a few hours after American troops landed from naval transports on Rendova island, five miles south of Munda.

The Japanese, at that time, counter-attacked with a force estimated at 110 planes of many types—fighters, Mitsubishi medium bombers, Aichi dive bombers and various others, including torpedoes.

All Day Attack
The attacks continued from the morning until late afternoon against United States naval forces putting troops and supplies ashore.

Under the fierce hail of enemy fire, anti-aircraft fragments and shell bursts the landing units continued their operations while American ships and planes battled the Japanese sky forces. Sixty-five of the enemy planes were shot down, "according to an incomplete report," and 17 United States planes were reported missing.

Torpedo planes of the Japanese squadrons caught the transport McCawley, formerly the Grace Line's Santa Barbara, and disabled her after she had put her troops ashore. Subsequently the ship was sunk.

DIVIDED AUTHORITY

On the day that Marvin Jones succeeded Chester C. Davis as war food administrator, Vice President Wallace was accusing Secretary of Commerce Jones of using his influence to hamstring the vice president's board of economic warfare.

Mr. Wallace charges Secretary Jones with refusal to relinquish the control he formerly exercised over the board as head of Reconstruction Finance Corp. It looks like a plain case of divided authority, exactly the same situation that caused Mr. Davis to resign as food administrator. His predecessor, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, had come to the end of his string three months earlier. Unless there is a drastic change, Mr. Jones will be another victim of confusion in the exercise of authority.

Divided authority is at the bottom of the battle of Washington that is distracting attention belonging to the war. The Roosevelt administration's most evident weakness always has been failure to fortify its official family with strong administrators who would have to stand or fall on their record. The President consistently has favored a policy of retaining the balance of power in his own hands while filling appointive positions with men who were willing to operate under that handicap.

This as a weakness in peacetime. In wartime it looms as a real threat to national security. Under pressure, the administrative organization is coming apart at the seams. Individuals with responsibility find their hands tied by muddled authority. Other individuals with apparently clear authority are afraid to exercise it because they know the ultimate authority lies beyond them. Men who should be making policy are over-riden by other men behind the scenes who have the power of final decision. It is all there in black and white in the letter of resignation written by Mr. Davis.

Substantially the same story has been repeated dozens of times. It was just 10 years ago that the President sent his secretary of state, Cordell Hull, to London to the world economic conference, then scuttled the conference by remote control with a withdrawal of authority that left Mr. Hull high and dry—an episode described in detail by Raymond Moley. Since then, Mr. Hull has been secretary of state in name only; the real secretary of state is in the White House.

In peacetime, it did not seem to matter too much that Mr. Roosevelt was surrounded by a weak cabinet; that the secretary of the navy was a virtual non-entity; that the secretary of labor commanded no confidence; that the secretary of war wielded no influence; that the attorney general was a mouthpiece for "brain trusters" who never appeared before the public. In wartime, it began to matter immediately. The President needed stronger men for greater responsibility. But the old habit of keeping a string on them wasn't to be broken easily.

One recalls a seemingly endless series of shakeups as the cumulative effect of divided authority became evident in the war emergency. Even the seemingly strong men who were brought into the government to do big jobs were unable to overcome the difficulty. Donald Nelson, William Jeffers, Mr. Davis and many others all have tangled sooner or later with the "sticky" influences that operate relentlessly in Washington to keep the government under the finger of men so jealous of power they refuse to delegate it.

There is yet to emerge one wartime official with the responsibility given Newton D. Baker as secretary of war under President Wilson—responsibility so well backed by authority that Mr. Baker made one of the nation's most brilliant administrative records in what admittedly was one of the toughest jobs ever tackled by an American official. Bernard M. Baruch, another of Wilson's "strong men," is still available for service, yet only recently has been added to the administration as a "consultant."

The fundamental cause of the trouble that seems to be bobbing up here, there and everywhere in the executive organization is easier to find than a cure. Constructive criticism calls for Mr. Roosevelt to repair the authority he has weakened by dividing it too many ways, but it is naive to think that a thing which never was done before can be done quickly in the midst of wartime complications. Building a strong executive organization capable of carrying on a war on the home front with a minimum of lost effort while the chief executive remains free to work out strategy and international problems is not something to be done between sunrise and sunset on a given day.

The most that can be hoped for in the way of immediate improvement is recognition that something more than a mood of captious criticism impels the public to be aware of something wrong. It will continue to welcome every move that promises to overcome the bad results of divided authority—just as it welcomed the naming of Mr. Davis as food administrator—but it also must continue to be disturbed and disappointed at every new sign of the administration's failure to rise above its chronic weakness, muddled authority.

GOV. BRICKER'S STAND

Gov. Bricker has met the demand for a clear statement of his position on American participation in a post-war international organization to preserve peace so squarely that there simply is nothing further to be said. He favors American participation. In an interview at the close of the governors' conference in Columbus, he said:

"The desires of the people of the United States for better international relations must be implemented in a practical and constructive way. . . . What the organization, association or methods will be must be determined in the light of facts as they then exist."

However, Gov. Bricker is not pinning his hopes on more internationalism to solve post-war problems. Unlike the New Deal apologists who have been explaining lately that there will be no issue in 1944 but foreign policy, the governor charges that successful foreign policy without the backing of sound domestic policy is impossible.

"For 10 years," he declared in an address before the Wisconsin Bar association last Saturday night, "our national administration has pursued a domestic policy which, at every point, hampers and contradicts its professed foreign policy. Ten years ago, we adopted certain domestic policies that were based upon an America isolated from the currents of world affairs. . . . The tragic results of that policy now face us with grim and forbidding reality."

It is taking a long time for the truth to soak in, but the antidote for too much isolation is not a horse doctor's drench of internationalism. Somewhere between the point of being interested in all other nations and the point of taking care of our own interests is the place where the United States should take its stand in the post-war years—the place where Gov. Bricker already has taken his stand.

BEING prepared for some sudden and quite unpredictable situation, and ready to grasp it with direct energy and courage as well as with skill should result in promotion, preferment or other high honor or favor. This may react upon the love life as well as on domestic and social and romantic adventures.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of unlooked for opportunity for advancement or promotion in position, with preferment and favors from those in high places as well as from public, community, or group sources. This propitious time should be grasped with clever and energetic attack, but within the bounds of logic and reason. Enhanced popularity and prestige should have happy reactions on the private affections, probably in sudden engagements or marriage, or sentimental, social or domestic celebrations of public importance.

A child born on this day should be richly endowed with forces and faculties as well as with exceptional opportunities to force to the front in his career. It may enjoy a happy and romantic life.

After listening all day to United Nations official speeches on when and where the invasion will be, Hitler must long for the good old days when he was giving out invasion rumors.

"OFFICER'S MESS"

MIND'S ROLE IN ILLNESS

Thoughts of Patient Are Important

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

YESTERDAY we discussed briefly a new department of modern medicine called psychosomatic medicine. It can hardly be called a specialty because it applies to nearly every patient. The very name indicates that the physician should study the personality, mind and soul of the patient, as well as his physical health.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

There are very few diseases in which the mind of the patient plays no part whatever in the symptoms of the disease. Perhaps an acute disease like measles or pneumonia may be regarded purely from the physical standpoint and treated with that in view, but in general the old maxims to the effect that "What the patient thinks about his disease may be almost as important as the disease itself" and "We want to know first what kind of disease the patient has and what kind of patient this disease has."

Help Patient's Outlook

The importance of this viewpoint is that the physician can always do something about the patient's opinion of his disease and outlook on life even if he can do little or nothing about the disease itself. In looking over a recent textbook on psychosomatic medicine I find that it has chapters on diseases of every system in the body—the heart, the digestive system, the endocrine system, the lungs.

Our mental habits are fixed in childhood and it is not surprising to find the following statement in this book on psychosomatic medicine: "Most of the feeding problems in infancy are of emotional origin." That may come as a surprise to some people but not to an old family physician. Even in childhood remember that the digestive system is more than any other part of the body disturbed by an unpleasant emotional stimuli.

Tantrums in childhood may lead to a habit of mind which is disturbing to happiness in later life in many ways. The tantrums may turn into something that looks like an organic disease. Many a chronic dyspeptic who comforts himself with the idea that his stomach is "weak" and that he has ulcer if often an example of tantrums which have become fixed in the digestive system.

Our personalities slop over and influence not only members of our household, but nearly all our possessions. As Eben Holden said of the man and his horse, "Got t' judge the owner as well as the horse, and if there's anything the matter with his conscience it'll come out in the horse somewhere." The same thing is true of parents and children.

Effect of Experiences Experiences later in life also tend to steer a person either towards a state of semi-invalidism or away from it. A person who has had a healthy, happy childhood under the direction of wise parents with carefully supervised nutrition, who finds success in adult life is unlikely to drift into any functional illness, either psychic or somatic.

On the other hand, even with the best and healthiest childhood, a business reverse, an unhappy love affair, a series of unsuccessful marriages, any of the larger experiences in emotional life can turn even a naturally cheerful and healthy person into a brooder and a self-doubter, which emotional state may be presented to the world in the form of some functional disturbance such as dyspepsia, blood pressure upsets, neuralgia or headaches—all of which come within the field of psychosomatic medicine.

Questions and Answers R. G. A.: What is meant by bilateral nerve deafness? What causes it and what can cure it in a young person of twenty-one?

Answer: In general, there are two kinds of deafness one; the common form, that is due to a chronic inflammation of the middle ear. In this form the nerve is intact, but the ear drum is stiff. In another form the receiving organ (the labyrinth) is degenerated; this is called nerve deafness. Bilateral means that it is on both sides. The cause of bilateral nerve deafness may be either congenital or it may be some infectious disease—scarlet fever, measles, mumps, diphtheria or lues. Rarely the nerve itself is the seat of a tumor.

H. G. M.: Is the use of an ultra-violet lamp helpful in dissolving adhesions? Is the lamp beneficial in treatment of arthritis?

Answer: The lamp benefits adhesions only by the application of enough heat to allow use and massage of a joint which has adhesions.

sions. The lamp is also valuable in arthritis. If you mean abdominal adhesions or chest adhesions, I do not believe the lamp is of any benefit in these conditions whatever.

For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th St., New York. Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 million of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits a poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 60 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

She's 5 feet 1 from her 4A slippers to her spun-gold hair. But, men, oh men, how she can handle her big press!

Wait a minute! How can 110 pounds of beauty boss so many tons of steel? Is this magic?

Yes, in a way. The modern magic of electric power. The magic that makes it possible for a girl's slim fingers to lift mountains of metal, or set great wheels in motion—just by pressing a button or pulling a lever.

Women are able to work beside men on America's roaring production lines because electricity does the heavy labor. America's war production is the greatest in the world largely because America has the world's greatest supply of electric power—five times more than in the last World War!

Call that magic too! But it's all in the day's work! All part of knowing the job.

Here in Ohio, being on time with electric power has been the business of Ohio Edison Company ever since the Company started. By long range planning—and not by accident—our power facilities have been big enough in this time of national crisis to do a big job for all of our customers every day around the clock and calendar.

Crippled Bomber Returned Safely By Two Ohio Pilots

(By Associated Press)
SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, June 29—(Delayed)—The twin-engined Mitchell bomber, a bullet-riddled rubber liferaft jammed into the right side of its stabilizer, staggered down the metal-stripped runway and came to a stop. A crash wagon and ambulance were waiting.

The co-pilot's window on the right side of the cockpit slid back. A round, close-cropped head popped out and looked down at Doc Brown, the unit's flight surgeon, sitting in the cab of his ambulance.

"Everything's going to be all right, Doc," said Second Lieut. Carl M. Denlinger of Dayton, O. "Just throw a little dirt in my face. I can't wait to see what it feels like."

Thus ended the first mission, and an epic one, for Denlinger, the pilot, Second Lieut. Jack W. Snyder of Brewster, Ohio, and for their four crewmates in the army B25.

Snyder and the others were briefed for the mission almost as soon as they arose yesterday morning. Their plane took off as part of a sizeable formation of B25s.

Over the target area, a freak accident caused the liferaft, atop the plane amidships, to come adrift. Driven back through the air by the slipstream, it crashed into the stabilizer—the long horizontal fin—into the tail of the fuselage—and in the process, took along three aerial wires which tangled themselves around the raft as it became wedged into the stabilizer.

Plane Stalled Once
The plane immediately was throttled down to below 150 miles an hour only a few hundred feet above a valley. The boys were 200 miles from home.

With the raft on the stabilizer, the plane's nose kept rising. Much as they tried, Snyder and Denlinger were unable to push the controls forward by hand. Once the plane rose so steeply it stalled and began to sideslip. The lads thought they were goners for sure. They caught her just in time.

"We figured there was no use trying to fight the controls by hand, so the two of us sat back, put both feet on the controls, and shoved for all we were worth," Snyder said.

Behind them, the enlisted men were doing all they could to work the raft free. The engineer, Staff Sgt. Hyman Prosten of Brooklyn, N. Y., hung out the small rear window until its sharp metal edge cut across his thighs and the slipstream threatened to blow his body back toward the tail.

As the plane passed over the mountains its flying speed fell to within a few miles of the stalling speed and remained there the entire 200 miles back to base. The vibration at the ship's after end was so severe that the lads discovered after landing that the stabilizer had begun to work loose from the fuselage.

Somehow—don't ask them how—they brought her home. "And set her down, don't forget that," added Snyder.

The pilot rubbed his legs ruefully. That seemed to remind Denlinger, and he tentatively flexed his knees, then winced. They still were aching from that half-hour with feet bared and legs pushing on the controls.

"Anyway," said Snyder, "all our stuff hit the target area—We almost did, too."

AMERICANS SEIZE HARBOR FROM JAPS

crippled vessel was assaulted and sunk by a Japanese submarine. "Reports indicate that all personnel were removed before the vessel sank and that there was no loss of life," the communiqué said. American air forces, the communiqué brought out, also played a major role in the starting of the offensive in the Solomons area. On Tuesday night (Solomons time) Avenger torpedo bombers and countless dive bombers heavily attacked the Japanese airfield, stores and camp areas at Vila, Kolombangara island, in the Munda area. Attack Munda itself

On Wednesday morning Mitchell medium bombers, Dauntless and Avenger bombers attacked Japanese defensive positions and the camp area at Munda itself and the communiqué said "A large fire was started." There was no mention of attacks on Japanese ships or shipping.

The Navy said the captain of the American ship lost was Commander Robert Henry Rodgers, 41, a native of Knoxville, Tenn., who makes his home at Staten Island, N. Y.

The transport McCawley, according to Jane's Fighting Ships, standard reference work, carried a five-inch gun, three three-inch guns and various smaller weapons and had a normal complement of 197 crew members with a transport capacity of about 1,800 persons.

BOMBERS ATTACK SICILIAN FIELDS

U. S. Pilots Unopposed In Raids There and Also At Palermo

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 1.—United States bombers and fighter-bombers of the Northwest African Air Force blasted Palermo and four Axis air fields on Sicily yesterday, virtually without opposition from enemy fighters, it was announced today.

The Italian high command communiqué, broadcast from Rome and recorded by The Associated Press, reported "great damage and many casualties" at Palermo, a port of northwest Sicily. Sardinian targets also were attacked, the communiqué said. Fires were reported started and several buildings destroyed in Cagliari.

(Submarine pressure upon Axis supply lines continued. The London admiral announced that British submarines had destroyed a fast transport and three supply vessels and probably had sunk a fifth ship in Italian waters, boosting to more than 20 the number of enemy craft sunk or damaged in the Mediterranean during the last week.)

Fires Are Visible

The attacks by Flying Fortresses, Mitchells, Marauders, Warhawks and Lightnings came after RAF Wellingtons, in a pre-dawn attack, smashed again at the ferry terminus and freight yards of Messina and also at the road south of San Giovanni and San Marco, on the nearby Italian mainland.

The American raids on Sicilian targets yesterday left fires blazing at air fields and many planes were destroyed or damaged in dispersal areas. At Palermo seven direct hits were scored on a large barracks.

All engagements cost the Allies two planes.

Air officials said photographs taken since the big Fortress raid on Naples June 28 "show severe damage has been done to the oil storage depot of the Italian-American Petroleum company."

SO THIS IS SOUTH PACIFIC LIFE!

PLENTY OF REASON for envy on the part of his comrades comes Corp. George Donlevy's way in the "South Sea Scandals" show staged by men of the American forces stationed on New Caledonia. The boys were lucky to get real girls for roles in the production. As Donlevy relaxes with Andree Baumer, Vaite Hagen and Myrette Mayet, he remarks, "Say, you know who really got it easy in this war? Those d...d goldbricks in the South Pacific." (International)

Treat Pays Penalty In Electric Chair

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, July 1.—Tearfully begging forgiveness "if I have done anything wrong," Anthony Treat, 57-year-old Cincinnati painter, died in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary last night for the Christ-mas eve rape-slaying of 10-year-old Helen Seiders.

After protesting his innocence in a note sent to Warden Frank D. Henderson less than two hours before he was electrocuted, Treat entered the death chamber at 8:33 p. m. and was pronounced dead 18 minutes later.

Before being strapped in the chair, the slightly-built painter shook hands with Guard C. C. Saltmarsh, saying "I hope to meet my mother and son," then asked to meet the warden.

Grasping Henderson's hand, Treat thanked him for the last dinner he had eaten, asked permission to "say a blessing," then knelt in prayer facing the chair.

"I have done many things in my life," he prayed. "If I have done anything wrong forgive me. Place me with my boy and mother. I don't mean to do wrong. If I ever did forgive me. If I ever did anything wrong—I ask you to do this thing. Amen."

CLEVELAND, July 1.—Frank Maslaynak, 16-year-old fugitive from the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster, was shot and killed by Detective-Sergeant James J. McDonald last night. Maslaynak left Lancaster last April to attend the funeral of an uncle here and never went back, McDonald said.

Heat, Traffic Ruin Highways In State

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, July 1.—Harry D. Metcalf, chief maintenance engineer for the state highway department, reported today more than 10,000 miles of Ohio's 18,000-mile highway system have been affected adversely by excessive heat and heavy war-time traffic.

Blow-outs on some pavements and "bleeding" of bituminous-treated roads, both caused by heat and traffic, have brought on the present problem, Metcalf said.

Among counties where blow-outs have occurred were Hancock, Ashland, Huron, Fulton, Henry, Trumbull, Stark, Clark, Geauga and Wood.

Where blow-outs occur, the pavement buckles and blocks of material spring from their base. Bituminous-treated highways soften up under excessive heat and the material runs, causing "bleeding."

"The repair problem, he said, "is similar to that following last winter's high water and extreme cold that caused more than $2,000,000 damage.

Army's Balloon Barrage For New York Is Ready

(By Associated Press)

SOMEWHERE ON LONG ISLAND, N. Y., July 1.—The Army is ready on 100 seconds' notice to raise a balloon barrage over a vital military objective in the New York metropolitan area.

Major Gen. Sanderford Jarman, commanding general of the Anti-Aircraft Artillery command which extends from Maine to Florida, yesterday showed how it would be done. At his signal from the barrage balloon unit headquarters in the clubhouse of a golf course taken over by the army, 34 balloons arose to form the first barrage in the metropolitan area.

Within their operational height, the balloons, which have been flown as high as 5,000 feet over combat zones, are intended to give defense against dive bombers and low flying planes and deny the enemy the use of low hanging clouds for concealment.

47 YEARS IN ITALY, RELEASED

LAST 47 YEARS of their lives spent in Italy, Miss Dora Clark, 78, and her sister, Ada, 86, have been released from internment to return to their native England. Their release came after they had written a letter to Benito Mussolini saying that they were the daughters of an English general and not used to the dirt in which they were forced to live following Italy's entrance into the war. Predicts Bombings In U. S. This Year

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 1.—A vigorous warning that the United States might be subjected to aerial bombing by the Axis enemy this summer was voiced here today.

D. C. Speaker, the mythical District of Columbia spokesman who, however, frequently represents authoritative sources who will not be quoted by name, said:

"No major military damage could be inflicted by such raids, but the Axis could well be counting on utilizing such raids to create a frantic defensive psychology within this country in an effort to compel the Allied command to pull back its strength to the home front to satisfy public clamor.

"If they succeed in any such plan, it would prolong the war indefinitely and result in an enormous waste of life."

Speaker, who said he spoke with full knowledge of the United Nations military situation, said the Army, which is responsible for the defense of the country against enemy air attack, had never lost sight of the possibility. Speaker added, the Army also was determined not to allow the possibility to play a disproportionate part in the location of its forces.

Asked why the warning was being repeated at this time, Speaker replied that the reminder was timely on any occasion, no more so now than at other times except that

Cattle Dedistribution Brings Disease Threat

CHICAGO, July 1.—Redistribution of dairy cattle among farms to prevent their going to forced sale for slaughter poses a new threat of Bang's disease flareups in many rural areas this year, the American Veterinary Medical association said today.

"Many outbreaks of brucellosis are bound to be started unless attention and supervision is given the herds sold and the herds into which they go," the association said. "If all dairy herds were free of this serious disease, milk production would be increased 20 per cent and more."

Milton H. Critchfield, commander of the Salem post, will present District Commander Pickering, who in turn will introduce State Commander Coffey. His will be the only address at these ceremonies.

Will Register Saturday

Delegates and alternates will begin arriving in Salem Saturday afternoon, with registration at the Legion home from 4 to 6 p. m. in charge of the Ladies Auxiliary. At 8 that evening a school for Legion service officers will be conducted by Commander Pickering.

Registration will continue Sunday morning at the Memorial building, where all of Sunday's business sessions will be held. Reports of district chairmen and convention committees will occupy the morning hours, from 9:30 to 11:30.

Commander Critchfield will call the afternoon session to order at 1 p. m. by presenting Pickering, who will preside. Mayor R. R. Johnson will give the address of welcome, with the response by C. W. Whittemyer of Canton, district vice commander.

Several state and past district officers will be included in the introduction of distinguished guests. Mrs. Scheuring of Brewster, president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Tenth district, is expected to attend. Time For War Only

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Congress has decided that army officers should wage war and not sit for their portraits.

So—Artists and painters of battle scenes will be rubbed off the army payroll, effective Aug. 31, under the $71,500,000,000 War department appropriations bill.

SWING VERBALLY IN NEWEST TIFF

PRINCIPALS in Washington officialdom's newest word battle are Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones, left above, and Vice President Henry A. Wallace, right. Charges by Wallace that his Board of Economic Warfare had been hampered by "obstructionist tactics" of Jones and his officials brought a bitter reply from the cabinet member that declared Wallace's statement was "filled with malice and misstatements" and asked an investigation.

Senate, House Deadlocked Over Passage of Appropriation

ment between the senate and the house over a trio of federal employees declared by the house appropriations committee to be unfit to hold public office after their political philosophies were attacked by the chairman of the Dies committee.

Delay Passage

Major differences holding up passage of the other measures were: Agriculture department ($75,000,000)—house insistence on discontinuance of the government crop insurance program; the senate wants to continue it.

War agencies ($2,931,000,000)—the house voted to discontinue the domestic operations branch of OWI and cut out its entire $5,500,000 fund, and the senate gave it $3,561,499; the house whacked $35,000,000 from the OPA budget and the senate restored the cut and voted additional funds. House leaders also are balking at a senate amendment banning the pay of any official paid $4,500 or more annually who has not been confirmed by the senate.

Labor-federal security ($1200,000,000)—the house ordered liquidation of the National Youth Administration (NYA), while the senate voted the agency $48,800,000. Interior department: Increases of $55,027,825 voted by the senate over house allotments, most of the new money being for western irrigation projects.

Workmen's Compensation Rates Are Changed Today

COLUMBUS, July 1.—Workmen's compensation rate reductions averaging eight per cent and expected to save Ohio employers $2,600,000 during the coming 12 months go into effect today.

The revised rate schedule announced by the State Industrial commission does not cut all rates. It increases those where experience indicates premiums have not been sufficient to meet losses, lowers others more than eight per cent and leaves some unchanged.

The eight per cent slash, the eighth consecutive yearly downward revision, drops rates 34 per cent below the 1935 level, E. I. Evans, commission actuary, said.

Increased industrial employment was responsible principally, the commission reported, for increasing total assets of the Ohio state insurance fund last year by $17,734,670 to an all-time peak of $102,344,535.

Tax Stamp Sales Lag

LISBON, July 1.—Approximately 1,100 automobile use tax stickers were purchased by car owners at the postoffice up to the close of business last night, Postmaster Earl Richardson announced today. This is somewhat short of last year's total sales of 1500.

Make Your Old Shoes Last

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Features Writer

Shoe rationing has taught us to think twice before we discard that "old pair of shoes."

To save our three pairs a year, we must remember to brush suede shoes daily with a suede brush; dust and polish kid, calf and patent leather shoes before putting them away.

The same shoes should not be worn two days in succession or be dried on a hot radiator, which burns and cracks leathers.

In rainy weather we should always wear overshoes—a new pair of shoes can be ruined beyond repair by a drenching of rain.

Get new lifts when heels become run-down, new linings when necessary, new soles and new laces. Be sure to repair shoes at the first sign of a rip in any seam.

Avoid bad habits of walking, such as scraping soles on floor, knocking heels together, and running over on one side or the other, which wear shoes out rapidly.

We should never wear street shoes around the house and should keep shoe-trees in shoes when not being worn.

Always buy shoes that fit well, because shoes that are too large or too small will lose their shape quickly. No one these days can afford to make the mistake of buying shoes that will have to be discarded because of poor fit and discomfort.

Germans Feast As Conquered Starve

(By International News Service)

LONDON—A graphic illustration of the food situation in Poland, which might be aptly applied to any other of the conquered territories, was drawn in a recent issue of the "Polish Review."

On a Sunday morning in September, 1942, while the Poles of Cracow were gratefully receiving their meagre portions of a half ounce of meat, a speck of lard, and a pinch of sugar and the surviving Jews secured their week's ration of a pound of adulterated bread, the German populace or the city feasted to its heart's content.

Advertisements, displayed in all the leading newspapers, invited German citizens to the "Haus-Ring Casino" or the "Bar Hotel Polski" or any other number of small sweet shops and delicatessens, where they could procure the finest of meats, the choicest drinks, the very best eggs, vegetables, fruits, and other culinary delicacies.

With minor deviations, the Cracow scene of "food for the conqueror and nothing for the vanquished" is being duplicated in every village and city throughout Poland—and Europe.

RECEIPTS LOWER THAN ARMY-NAVY GAMES LAST YEAR

134,578 Fans Pay $147,391 Into Treasury of National Organization

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The major leagues scored 100 per cent for entertainment on the first of their two War Relief days yesterday, but they failed to get more than a bare passing grade at the box office.

An assortment of doubleheaders, twilight and night games in eight cities drew 134,578 fans who paid $147,391 into the treasury of National War Relief, Inc., and this might seem like a lot of people and a lot of money except that games for Army and Navy relief in the same cities last year netted $289,412.

Under last year's arrangement, when clubs were permitted to pick their own rivals and choose their own dates, the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants played each other and wrote out checks for $60,000 in Brooklyn and $73,000 in the Polo grounds.

This year's plan of having all clubs meet on the same day had its good points, but it resulted in a gate of $32,000 at Brooklyn and $17,000 at New York.

Benefit Games Coming

Nevertheless, the major leagues still have another crack at matching last year's total War Relief contribution of $506,830 from 16 major league benefit games. The clubs which were on the road today will stage shows of their own on July 28.

At Brooklyn, before a crowd of 26,893 that was mesmerized by the tenor solos of Dixie Walker, the Dodgers handcuffed the Cincinnati Reds twice 5-0 and 11-5. This boosted Brooklyn half a game ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals in the National league. Although the Cards retained a slender percentage advantage of dividing a doubleheader with the New York Giants, Mort Cooper, appearing in relief, was beaten in the tenth inning of the first game 4-3, but Lefty Howie Pollet pitched a six-hit 5-0 shutout in the second session with his teammates hitting four home runs, two of them by Lou Klein.

The Chicago Cubs captured two games at Boston 2-0 and 5-2. The New York Yankees reinforced their hold on the American league with a 3-1 triumph in ten innings at Cleveland.

Orval Grove, rejected by the army yesterday, achieved his fifth victory without defeat for the Chicago White Sox 7-1 by holding Washington to five hits before the biggest of the relief turnouts, 24,495.

John Niggeling pitched a three-hitter as the St. Louis Browns beat Philadelphia 3-1 and dumped the Athletics into the cellar.

Ninth inning homers by Bobby Doerr and Pinky Higgins caused the Detroit Tigers and Boston Red Sox to finish in a 3-3 tie in the 11th inning.

Pittsburgh and the Phillies also played to a 3-3 deadlock which was halted after 11 innings of their night game.

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Just to start something, what was the fastest nine-inning baseball game ever played? . . . The major league record stands at 51 minutes by the Giants and Phillies. . . . In 1919, but we've just come across a game played by Mobile and Atlanta on Sept. 19, 1910, which was finished in 32 minutes. . . . Summary of Columbia football prospects by Athletic Director Ralph Furey, "We still have our schedule; we still have our coach; we still have our field—and we hope next fall we will have some players to go with them."

RECLASSIFIED
During the Pirates' batting practice the other day, a grounder took a bad hop and smacked First Baseman Elbie Fletcher on the left ear. . . . Manager Frank Frisch hurried down to first asking: "Are you all right, Elbie?" . . . "I'm still 3-A," replied Fletcher as he ruefully rubbed his ear, "but for a minute I thought I was 4-F."

SCRAP COLLECTION
It took Frank Kelleher, Syracuse outfielder, a full year to hit a single in the Buffalo ball park. During his 1942 appearances and until June 24, 1943 he socked nothing but doubles and homers there. . . . Lieut. Comdr. George Halas of the Bears and Charles Bidwill of the Cardinals were the ones who kept Don Ameche from getting a National Football league franchise. . . . And no cracks about Halas' bad actors or Bidwill's hams.

HAND-TO-HAND
Lieut. Denny Myers, instructor in hand-to-hand combat at the Iowa Navy Pre-Flight school, can offer concrete proof of the value of his teachings. . . . Coming out of the shower room the other day, Denny started to skid and only a "Judo" grip on Lieut. Bill Reed, who happened to be right there, kept him from falling flat. . . . "Glad, boy," panted Denny as he pulled himself erect, "I'm glad you didn't go home early tonight."

Time Running Out On Cincy's Hopes For Top Standing

(By Associated Press)
BROOKLYN, July 1.—Time is running out on the Cincinnati Reds' hope of proving themselves to be a first division ball club in the National league, and the Brooklyn Dodgers are doing nothing to hinder the running out of time.

Those two blisters the Dodgers gave the Reds yesterday dropped them below the .500 mark again and July 4, when ball clubs are supposed to be settling to their merited levels, is close at hand.

Bucky Walters is Manager Bill McKenney's hope of turning the trend today, against Kirby Higbe for the Dodgers. Bucky is enduring a four-game losing streak of his own.

Yesterday's scores were 5-0 and 11-5. Curt Davis checked the Reds adequately in the opener, giving four singles and allowing no runner past first base. Johnny Vander Meer, who hasn't won a ball game here since his second no-hitter back in 1938, fanned eight but walked seven and the Dodgers put the game past his reach with three runs in the eighth.

Home runs by Dixie Walker and Paul Waner featured the Dodgers' 16-hit onslaught in the nightcap. Walker got two more hits for a perfect day at bat and drove in three runs, while Waner knocked in four.

Navy Flight Cadets Are Physically Fit

Associated Press Features
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.—The venerable disease records set at the Navy pre-flight school may be equalled by other military establishments, but it will never be bettered, because it's simply perfect.

In the year since the North Carolina school was commissioned, not one case of venereal infection has been reported among the 7,500 student pilots taking the physical toughening course. Doctors say such a record among men in the 18-27 bracket is almost incredible.

Commander John P. Graff, commander, has an explanation for the phenomenal mark.

First, the careful selection program sends only youngsters of top mental and moral caliber to the school. Second, they're so keen on learning to fly they spend most of their spare time furthering their advancement. Third, under the speed-up program made necessary by the demand for pilots, the student pilots simply don't have time to "go out on the town" for a few drinks, which is a potent factor in venereal disease problems. The university town of Chapel Hill is dry.

"It all adds up to the cleanest bunch of men in the service," said Comdr. Graff.

YANKEES, INDIANS ARE PLENTIFUL IN ALL-STAR LINEUP

Nominations Include Thirteen Players of Last Year's Team

BY DAVE HOFF
CHICAGO, July 1.—An American league All-Star team heavily laden with New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians was created today from nominations submitted by the eight managers for the 10th annual game with the National league Stars July 13 in Philadelphia's Shibe park.

The Yankees and Indians each placed six players on the 25 man squad, which will be directed by Manager Joe McCarthy of New York, leaving 13 spots for men from the six other clubs.

Those were taken by four Washington Senators, three Boston Red Sox, two St. Louis Browns and two Detroit Tigers, and one each from the Philadelphia Athletics and Chicago White Sox.

Dickey Named Again
Thirteen members of the American league team which beat the Nationals last year in the New York Polo grounds, 3 to 1, placed again, including New York Catcher Bill Dickey, nominated for the 10th straight time—he's been named for all of them—and Yankee Second Baseman Joe Gordon, for the fifth time. Dickey did not play last year because of injuries.

These were the manager's selections for 1943:

PITCHERS—Spurgeon Chandler and Ernie Bonham, New York; Tex Hughson and Oscar Judd, Boston; Emil Leonard, Washington; Harold Newhouse, Detroit; James Bagby and Al Smith, Cleveland.

CATCHERS—Bill Dickey, New York; Buddy Rosar, Cleveland, and Jake Carey, Washington.

INFIELDERS—Ken Keltner and Lou Boudreau, Cleveland; Rudy York, Detroit; Joe Gordon, New York; Vernon Stephens, St. Louis; Dick Siebert, Philadelphia; Luke Appling, Chicago, and Bobby Doerr, Boston.

OUTFIELDERS—Charley Keller and John Lindell, New York; Chet Laabs, St. Louis; George Case and Bud Johnson, Washington; and Jeff Heath, Cleveland.

Coaches will be Lenal Blackburne of Philadelphia and Art Fletcher of New York. Dave Keefe of Philadelphia was selected as pitcher and John Schulte of New York as catcher for batting practice. Eddie Froelich of the Yankees was designated as trainer.

Nine of the 1942 American league all-stars now are in the service, thus explaining some of the new faces in this year's team.

Bagby Allows Only Five Hits In 11 Innings But Yanks Win

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, July 1.—The Cleveland Indians' Jim Bagby allowed the New York Yankees only five hits in 11 innings last night but a National league castoff handed the Tribe mound ace his fifth loss instead of his eighth triumph.

First baseman Nick Etten accounted for all of the McCarthy-men's runs in the 3 to 1 victory and collected three of the five blows Bagby doled out.

Nick's first hit was a home run smash into the right field seats in the second inning. His third safety was a double down the left field line that scored two mates with the winning runs in the 11th.

The Indians contributed to their own undoing by exhibiting some unorthodox base-running and by failing to cash in on scoring opportunities.

Last night's stadium game attracted 22,914 customers who contributed approximately $25,000 to the National War Fund, Inc. The clubs resume the series today at league park with Al Smith opposing Charlie Wensloff, the Yankees' prize rookie.

Fight Results

HARTFORD, Conn.—Phil Terranova, 127, New York, stopped Jackie Callura, 127, Hamilton, Ont. (3) non-title.

ELIZABETH, N. J.—Buddy Farrell, 153, Newark, won decision over Gene Buffalo, 151½, Philadelphia 10.

Dick Griffin, blind boxing promoter from Dallas, uses a German shepherd dog to guide him through the heaviest traffic.

HERE IS A NICE LITTLE FARM AT A VERY LOW PRICE!

Twenty-one acres located about four miles north of Salem in excellent neighborhood. Is improved with an extra good six-room house under slate roof, good cellar and water in house. Good bank barn equipped with stanchions for four cows, room for more. Good chicken house and other necessary outbuildings. Fruit for home use. Pasture watered by never-failing stream. This land is in high state of cultivation and will really produce.

THAT MAN IS MINE by May Christie

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

In a moment, Ann reopened her eyes. She could see a little more clearly now. She lay in a small, white-washed room. There was a strong odor of carbolic. A lamp with a green shade was on a nearby table that held some bottles and a basin.

She whispered: "The yacht went on fire."

"Yes, darling. Try to forget about it," counseled Julia gently. "You — weren't you hurt too—Julia?"

"No, dear, I'm fine."

The man in white said something to her sister. He left the room, closing the door quietly. Julia pulled forward a chair to the bedside and sat down close by Ann.

"What did he just put in my leg?"

"Something to ease the pain and put you to sleep, darling," Julia hastily rubbed the back of her hand across her own eyes. As she did so, Ann saw they were tear-filled.

"Don't cry for me, Julia. Am I — very ill?"

"You've had a shock. It will pass. Don't be afraid. I'm here to stay."

"Your job?" Ann whispered, groping for her sister's hand. She wanted the reassurance of her touch, even if it hurt her.

Julia very softly and delicately—practised nurse as she was—covered the bandaged fingers with hers.

"Vince telephoned the company for me. They've given me leave."

Ann's fluttering eyes widened.

"Because—I may die?"

"Nonsense, darling. It makes me feel badly when you even think such things." But Ann saw fear and sorrow flit across her sister's face before she managed a wan smile.

"Don't cry for me, Julia dear," Ann whispered.

"Who's crying? You're imagining things. You're not yourself yet, darling. Try to snooze a little."

"Vince. Was he—burned, too?"

"Only a little."

"Where—is he?"

"Here—in the hospital, Ann. His hands and chest only. The doctor just went to take a look at him."

"You're not — hiding—anything—from me? He isn't — going to die?"

"Why, no, honey! He's not even in bed. They put a dressing on him when he came here with you in the ambulance from the harbor."

"Oh!" Ann tried to remember those terrible moments. They swam in a queer confusion in her fuddled mind. Waking in the smoke-filled cabin . . . her attempt to turn the hot door-handle . . . the bolt jamming . . . how had she escaped from her blazing prison . . . ?

Ah! Now she remembered! Those agonizing flames, bursting through! Her pajamas catching fire . . . her long hair! Screaming in agony, her wild dive through the porthole! That was all—and plenty—she could remember . . .

"A boat picked you up right away," Julia said. "We got you to the hospital in fifteen minutes, luckily. You were unconscious."

A pause. There was no sound in the small, white-washed room save Ann's labored breathing.

"Was death coming? That she was dangerously ill she knew. She thought of Jim as someone she might never see again . . ."

It had been an unhappy love. Would he feel a little pity for her when he heard? Would he give her a thought at all?

It was as though Julia read what was passing through her mind. She said quickly: "You aren't going to die, darling. Make up your mind to live . . . for those who love you!"

"Yes," Ann said faintly.

She was aware that Julia's expert fingers were at her pulse as she spoke.

"I'm going to give you a little drink of something," Julia rose. She poured a potion from a bottle on the bedside-table into a measuring glass, added water, and transferred it to a drinking cup. "Try to swallow this, dear."

It hurt to lift her head, but Ann, helped by her sister, did so. She gazed at the bitter draught down.

"Was—anyone else—hurt?" she asked.

"Only a couple of the sailors. They're in the hospital too. The doctor says they'll live."

"How—did it happen? I mean—the blaze?"

"They think someone dropped a lighted cigarette in the saloon. Anyway, the fire started there. No one woke until it had almost destroyed the saloon. Your cabin was adjacent. The sailors tried to reach you, but it was too late. That's how they got burned," explained Julia, hoping that when her sister heard all, she might calm down and get a little sleep.

"And you, Julia?"

"I slept through it all. It's a lesson for me to cut down on cocktails," Julia said bluntly.

"Is the yacht gutted?" Ironical to recollect that poor, kind Vince had wanted to give it her as a wedding present!

"A good portion of its interior is," Julia replied. "It's in dry dock here. It'll cost plenty to repair it. Not that that matters," she added.

Julia was conscience-stricken that she had ever acceded to Vince's plan of bringing his farewell party for Ann down to Key West!

Ann presently dozed. Julia watched beside her until her sister's breathing became less labored. The opiate and the strong soporific she had given here were now working, as she had prayed they would.

Stealthily, she rose. She would go to Vince—tell him that Ann had fallen into a life-giving sleep—at the same time sending one of the substitute nurses Vince had engaged for her, to watch for any change in her sister.

Vince was in the doctor's living-room, sunk in a deep leather chair. His hands were deeped. He had his coat off. The dressing on his chest showed through his open shirt.

He jumped up on seeing Julia. "How is she?" he asked.

The blood slowly drained from his face as she did not at once reply.

"Don't tell me she's . . . ?" His voice broke. He trembled violently.

Julia assured Vince: "Ann is sleeping now."

"Oh, thank God!" He drew a long breath. His knees were so weak that they half buckled under him as he slumped back in his chair.

"But I ought to warn you that she's far from being out of danger, Vince. Not only does severe shock follow burning like hers, but there's always great danger of pneumonia."

"I'll never forgive myself! What a conceited, egotistic fool I've been!"

"We've all been fools, bent on pleasure—and this is where it landed us!" Julia said sadly.

"I swear I'll go on the wagon forever, if only . . . Julia, I swear to God I will!"

"Unfortunately you can't make bargains like that with God," Julia said reverently. "All we can do is pray for her, Vince."

"I have. I'm doing it now."

The Penney Co.'s Bond drive this July, like that last year, takes the form of a sales contest in which all employees and all stores of the chain compete for state and national awards. The Bond sales goal is $10,000,000.

In every Penney store, War bonds are promoted as "July's Best Buy!" This week the windows will stress the fighting ships that War bonds buy.

Also in connection with the observance, Quota club members will sell Bonds and Stamps from a booth in the store.
